About Me

My name is Layara Miranda de Campos, a 3rd year student in the Systems Development course (DS AMS) at ETEC da Zona Leste.

I like the course and the area but I don't see myself working with it, my dream career goes to an almost completely divergent area, and I'm preparing to reach it.

This dream started when I was ten years old, but before that, I wanted to become a paleontologist or a farmer. This changes when I visited an art gallery and saw the pictures there, I fell in love with this art expressions and changed my mind at the time.
